SITE DESCRIPTION:

See Division C map. Point Estero rocky intertidal habitat.

SEASONAL and SPECIAL RESOURCE CONCERN

Species of concern are present year round. Harbor seal pupping season is March-June. Peak sea otter pupping Jan-March.

Throughout Division C, black abalone (endangered) may be present in rocky intertidal habitat (designated critical habitat). Also designated critical habitat for leatherback sea turtles (endangered), most commonly observed Aug. – Nov.

RESOURCES OF PRIMARY CONCERN

Haulout area for moderate numbers of harbor seals. 500 Harbor Seals have been observed here. Southern sea otters can be observed offshore.

CONCERNS and ADVICE to RESPONDERS:

Species of concern are present year round. Harbor Seal pupping season is March-June. Peak sea otter pupping Jan-March.

Throughout Division C, black abalone (endangered) may be present in rocky intertidal habitat (designated critical habitat).

To protect seabirds, limit spill response activities within 1,000 feet of nesting seabirds when possible.

Try to remain at least 100 yards away from marine mammals and sea turtles and if approached closely by a marine mammal or turtle while motoring, reduce speed and shift to neutral; do not engage props until the animals are observed at the surface, clear of the vessel.

HAZARDS and RESTRICTIONS:

SITE STRATEGIES

Strategy 4-110.1 Objective: Deflect or exclude oil from this rocky intertidal area.

Offshore containment and recovery (OCR) is the preferred option although heavy surf may hinder these operations. No specific response equipment listed due to the many variables associated with each spill regarding OCR. Early consideration should be given to the use of applied response technologies.
